

Building Compost

Compost is an amazing material that can help to build healthy soil and support strong ecosystems. Check out this resource from the NYC Compost Project to learn more about how compost works:

What items do you have at home that could be used to create compost?

What else would you need to make compost?

Extender Activity:

Do you think you have enough information to start your own compost at home? If you don't have space for composting at home, can you research parks or gardens in your community that offer composting?
